

Abstract

One or more personalized models of one or more of a user's organs, systems, and/or the like may, for example, be run, and/or biological measurement data may, for instance, be obtained for the user. Comparison and/or the like of model output and obtained biological data may, for instance, be performed. A condition of the user may, for example, be deduced.